Stengel -

You asked me to write in your annual; something which is hard for me to do. I guess I should say I'm glad I was on the basketball team or I might never have known you. But then I think about Picks tryouts. There wouldn't have been any Picks tryouts for me if it hadn't been for you. Stengel, I have so much to thank you for and so little time and words. In one of the songs you all played today, it said, "Never mind what might have been." That is exactly what I feel now for in my heart I thank God for all that has been.

I'll never forget how much I wanted to go to the island the last time everyone went. When you all left I started talking to Sandy about it and almost cried. I wanted to go so bad. [illegible] I'll never forget how much work here, it [illegible] me to death. You just don't know how it made me feel [illegible] time. ~~Rock~~. People have asked me all day if I'm not excited about the Picks next year. What am I supposed to get excited about? The real Picks are you all. I now think of myself as a Picks but who wants to be a Picks without you all. But in time all this will change. This is what I'm afraid of. We will make promises about writing and writing but there will be other things to look forward to. Stengel, please make me come to Maryland or I'll never get there. I want to see Chris and Lewis (and

Thank you for being patient with my wonderful musical ability. I was so proud of me in the auditorium. I have never been so happy; all I could do was smile. I wanted to say so much but the words wouldn't come. Part of that I am trying to say now.

Then there was the night I got so mad when they said I wasn't taking Pikers seriously. You tried to calm me down which is virtually impossible. Then there was the other time I got really mad. Someday will understand it all. I'm sorry for the things I couldn't hold back, but then I'm thankful for the ones I did. I'm sorry because they hurt you and only made matters worse. Steph, please use your head, and think twice before you do something again like you almost did.

I must mention Bullwinkle and pie, not necessarily together. I really do like him even if he does post the dirt all the time. As for the weird subject, well you've heard enough about it. Remember the night we worked on the Bullwinkle figure for the banquet. For once in my life I wished instead of talking my face off. I'm going to stop or I will go on and on and it only gets sadder and sadder. It is inevitable that we will forget many things but there will be some very few I will remember forever. One last thing - I will promise you I won't forget you and all you have done for me. Steph, give your life the best you have and everything will work out.

Love always,
Van Hoy

P.S. I forgot to count your big freckles.

Alma Mater

On the hill stands Sullins College
'Neath fair skies of blue.
May she ever stand so proudly,
Glorious to view.

Through her halls the echoes linger
Of our college days,
Comradeship and love and courage,
Loyalty and praise.

Dearest Sullins in her glory,
Ever be our pride,
And her name we'll ever cherish,
Spread it far and wide.

Lift the chorus, speed it onward,
Over hill and dale,
Hail to thee, our Alma Mater,
Hail to thee, all hail!

We Dedicate

"The teacher . . . gives not of his wisdom but rather of his faith and his lovingness.
If he is indeed wise he does not bid you enter the house of his wisdom, but rather leads you to the threshold of your own mind."

The Prophet
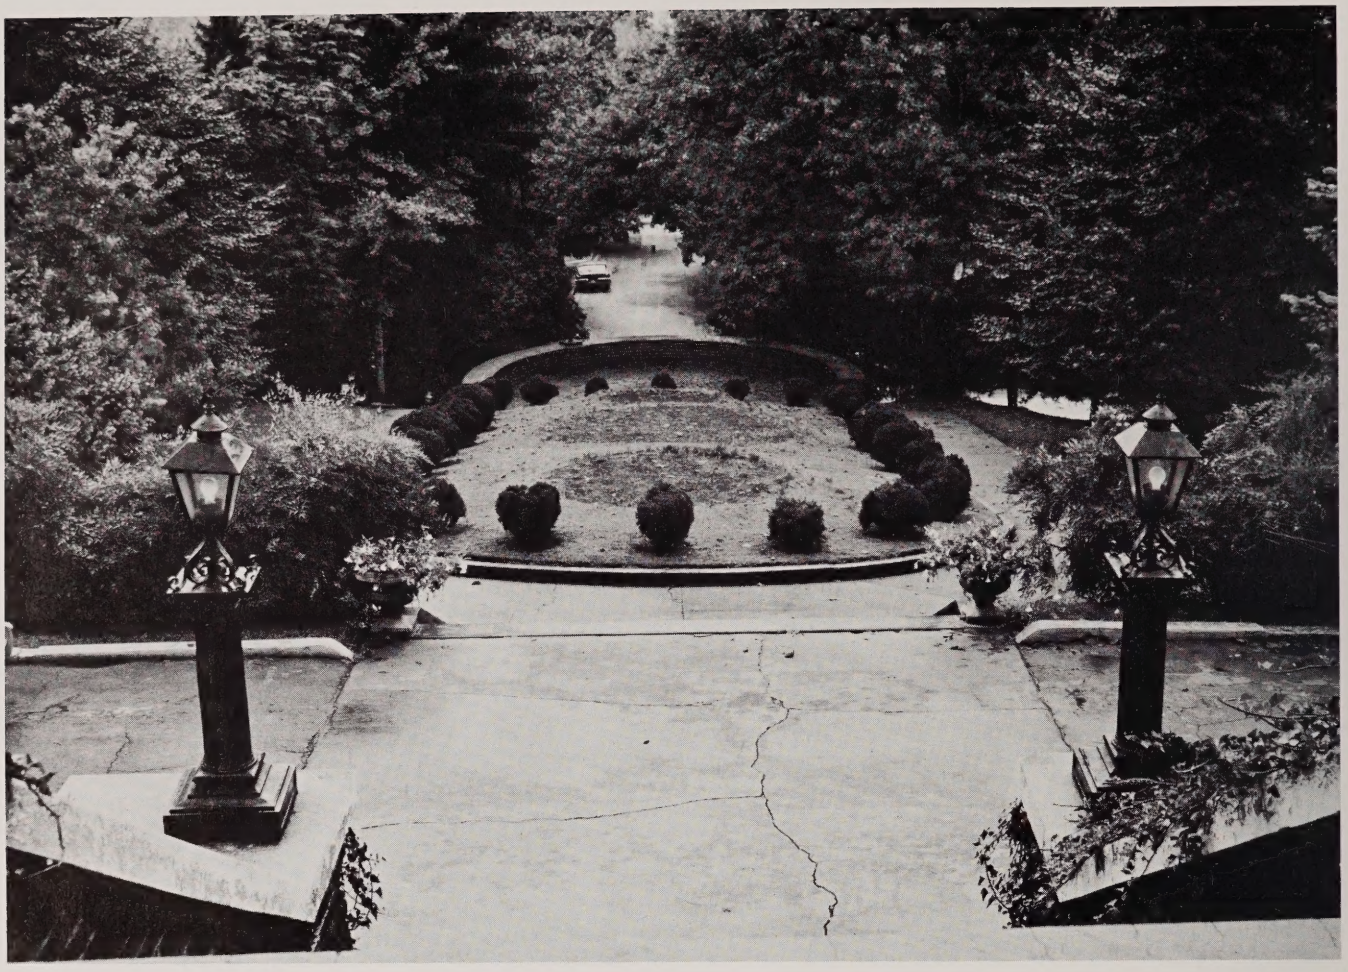
Kahlil Gibran

All of us have come into contact with a few outstanding teachers whom we particularly admire. The 1964 SAMPLER dedicatee is one such teacher. She has given deeply of herself in fairness and in understanding, in humor and in profound devotion. Her diligence and unceasing energy have served to strengthen the imagination and to stimulate the thought and individualism of her pupils.

Because of her great interest in the world about her, as well as her keen insight into the cultures of the past, she has been able to instill into her students an appreciation of finer things as well as to give them an adequate background of past civilizations.

Throughout her thirty-six years on the Sullins campus, our dedicatee has been recognized for her inspiring courses in English, religion, and the humanities. Before her teaching we were "little girls"; having been touched by her wisdom, we are on our way to mature womanhood. We can only hope that this dedication of the 1964 SAMPLER will, in a small measure, express the pride and appreciation that Sullins holds for Miss Ruth V. Milbrandt.



Throughout the following pages the SAMPLER Staff would like to illustrate the growth of the individual during her two years at Sullins.

Soon after the Freshman arrives at school she begins her educational development. She studies the events of the past, the various cultures of the world, and the philosophies of the wise men of the ages. She must consider the past, the present, and the future. Through these studies she will become more broad-minded and better-informed.

Spiritually, the student transforms the words her parents have so often told her into the ideals and morals of her own life. Her religious faith becomes a standard on which she depends for her own serenity, guidance, and stability. This inner growth is often shown in her relationships with other girls.

While participating in the school organizations and in the various athletics, the Sullins girl obtains companionship and develops sportsmanship. By associating with other girls from different states, she becomes aware of customs and environments other than her own. In this way she learns the importance of compatibility.

By attending Community Concerts, recitals, and art shows, our student acquires an appreciation of the cultural arts. She is brought into contact with musical and artistic concepts that are similar to and different from those to which she has been previously exposed. She learns to separate the good from the bad and to form a substantial opinion of her own. But most of all, she learns to recognize the various aspects of the culture around her and learns genuinely to appreciate them.

During her two years at Sullins, each of these aspects of growth becomes a goal for every girl ultimately to achieve. Even though a completely matured individual is not present upon graduation, a young woman appears, a woman who will continue her struggle to reach the goals she began in college. And to her educational, spiritual, and social growth we pay tribute in our SAMPLER of 1964.

We are quite proud of Metts Hall, the newest addition to our campus.

This is how Metts Hall looked in the early fall of 1963.

Our Growing Campus

Along with the growth of the individual, we also see in 1964 an addition to our campus, Metts Hall, which contains classrooms and administrative offices. It also contains a Board Room, a language laboratory, and a refreshment room. Work began on the building in April of 1963, and classes began meeting there in January of 1964.

Faculty, administration, and students are enjoying this new building very much. The formal dedication of Metts Hall will take place during the All-Alumnae Weekend of June 4-6.

Familiar Campus Scenes

The Sullins campus has become dear to us during our two years. The development of each season brings a new type of beauty. In the fall we see a striking array of color in the trees that surround the college and in those that are on the distant mountains. The fallen leaves make a colorful blanket on which many students tread as they go on autumn walks.

The Fine Arts Building is one of the newest and most attractive buildings on campus.

Afternoon shadows are cast upon the red brick walls of the Baskervill Library.

Major activities center around Martin Hall, the oldest and largest dormitory.

Holston Hall, traditionally the dorm for upperclassmen, now houses both Freshmen and Sophomores.

Our personalities develop from our associations with other students in our dormitories: Holston, Martin, and Reynolds. Martin Hall, located in the center of the three buildings, also contains the Residence Office, parlors, and dining room. With the opening of Metts Hall this winter, the classrooms that formerly were in these buildings have now been changed into study rooms. The view from any dormitory window is delightful because of the mountain scenery.

Here we see the winter snows that add grace to the Hut and the pond. But, whether covered with ice or rippling in a spring breeze, the pond is a place of great pride to us because of its refreshing beauty.

The Hut has been a spot for relaxation for years. The atmosphere is warm and friendly when a girl stops for food, cards, or conversation. No matter what time of day, one can find the Hut being used by the faculty and students alike.

The Hut looks cold from the outside in winter, but warmth is found through its doors.

It seems much too cold to be thrown into the pond today!

Faculty

Mr. William T. Martin, President of Sullins College, is very devoted in his work for the college and the students. A warm-hearted person, Mr. Martin is well liked by the students, the faculty, and the staff.

Mr. Martin received his B. A. from Washington and Lee and his L.L.B. from Harvard. He was an attorney in Knoxville, Tennessee; Portland, Oregon; and New York City before becoming executive vice-president of Sullins in 1945 and then president in 1950. Under his able leadership, Sullins is an academic community to which we are all proud to belong.

Mr. Benjamin F. Wheless, Dean of Faculty, makes many contributions to life at Sullins. Dean Wheless knows each girl at Sullins and greets her by name. He is genuinely interested in the academic and personal problems of each student.

Dean Wheless received his B. S. Degree from the University of North Carolina and his M. S. Degree from the University of Tennessee. Along with his duties as dean, he also teaches courses in social science.

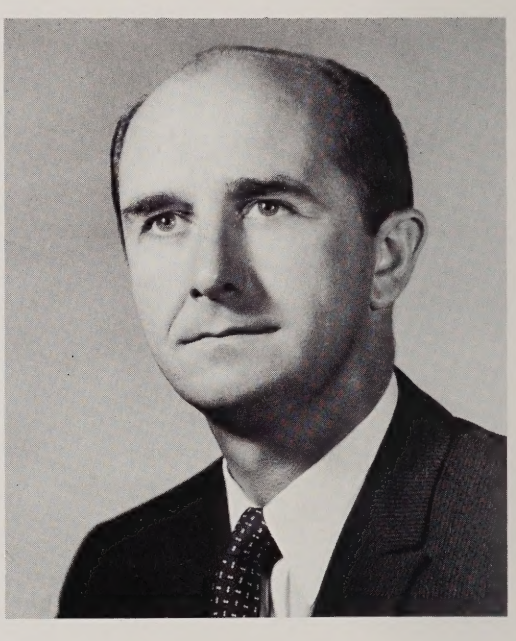
Mrs. Nelle Parham, our Acting Dean of Women, was graduated from the Northwestern University School of Speech at Evanston, Illinois. Dean Parham advises the Judicial Council and works with both the Freshman and Sophomore Classes.

Dean Parham is always available to answer any questions or to give the girls advice on their personal problems. Her friendliness and sincerity will never be forgotten by those who know her.

Mr. Raymond A. Bailey, the registrar and director of public relations at Sullins, attended the University of Maryland and Johns Hopkins University.

Mr. Bailey receives and handles the applications for admission and helps the prospective students to learn more about Sullins.

He also devotes a great deal of time to Camp Sequoya and has helped to make the camp a success.



Mr. Robert R. Knox, the college treasurer and business manager, received his B. S. Degree from State Teachers College, Shippensburg, Pennsylvania, and his M. A. Degree from Columbia University. Mr. Knox also teaches a course in accounting.

Mr. Knox and his family live on the Sullins campus.

Mr. Richard K. Olsen received his B. S. and M. Ed. Degrees from Springfield College. He is the guidance director, teaches a course in the history of the theatre, and is the director of the Sullins Players. Mr. Olsen and his family, formerly from New York, now reside in Bristol.

In Memoriam

Mrs. William E. Martin
1883-1963

December 19, 1963, the day Mrs. William E. Martin died, was a grey day for Sullins; for she was the link between the Sullins of the more leisurely past and of the fast-moving, fast-growing present. Belonging to one age, she felt the constant challenge of the new.

Although Mrs. Martin came to Sullins as a teacher in 1904, it was not until her marriage to Dr. Martin in 1907 that her life became inseparably bound to Sullins. Her closest affiliation with the college came, however, after the burning of the old Sullins in 1915, when Dr. Martin was asked to reestablish the college on a new site and to become its president.

As the president's wife and a teacher of Shakespeare and finally as dean of women, Mrs. Martin exerted a profound influence. The great demand for her as a speaker at Sullins Alumnae gatherings in later years is proof of the girls' devotion to her and of the prodigious memory for names, faces, and events with which she was endowed. One of this year's students who was invited to tea at Mrs. Martin's home in the fall said proudly, "She remembered my mother."

A gracious lady, well-read, charming, gentle with the gentility and humility of the truly great, Mrs. Martin has left an indelible impression of excellence upon those whose lives she touched. The intellectual and spiritual values she gave to generations of Sullins girls will be her memorial.

"I'm so proud of my new typewriter."

"Look up, Mrs. Seaton. You're missing the best part of the program."

Mr. Nason eyes his latest painting while he relaxes with his guitar.

"I do wish we could find a fourth for bridge."

English

Miss Loyless points to the map of England in her class in English literature.

Miss Cash acquaints a group of freshmen English students with the card catalog and some reference guides.

Miss Hunt and her students in American literature discuss The Red Badge of Courage.

All first-year students take English for Communication. The course teaches a further understanding of the language and its uses as a tool of communication. Parallel reading, theme writing, and the research paper are required of the students.

Sophomores can take either English or American literature. English Literature is a survey course from Beowulf through the Victorian period. American Literature is a study of major American authors, including the reading of eight outstanding novels during the year.

Humanities

Humanities, which is a requirement for graduation, is one of the most interesting courses offered at Sullins. It is a short study of literature, philosophy, religion, art, and music from ancient to modern times. There is a listening laboratory for the music section and a looking laboratory for the art section.

This course, which consists of one semester of literature and a quarter each of art and music, broadens and deepens our appreciation of our cultural heritage.

Sandra McNally and Tena Dunlap get some instruction from Mrs. Vance before they listen to one of Mozart's symphonies.

Social Science

Mr. Knipe lectures about the New Deal in his social science class.

Mr. Scarboro's students in European history study a map of the French and Indian Wars.

All Sullins freshmen take Development of American Institutions, a course which stresses the principles and trends in American history and life today. The course is based on library readings, lectures, and class discussions.

Courses open to sophomores are political science, economics, sociology, psychology, History of the Far East, and Modern European History. All these courses give the student a better understanding of the political, economic, and social forces that are at work in the world.

Carolyn Smith gives a report on Moslems in the United States in Miss Guthrie's sociology class.

Speech

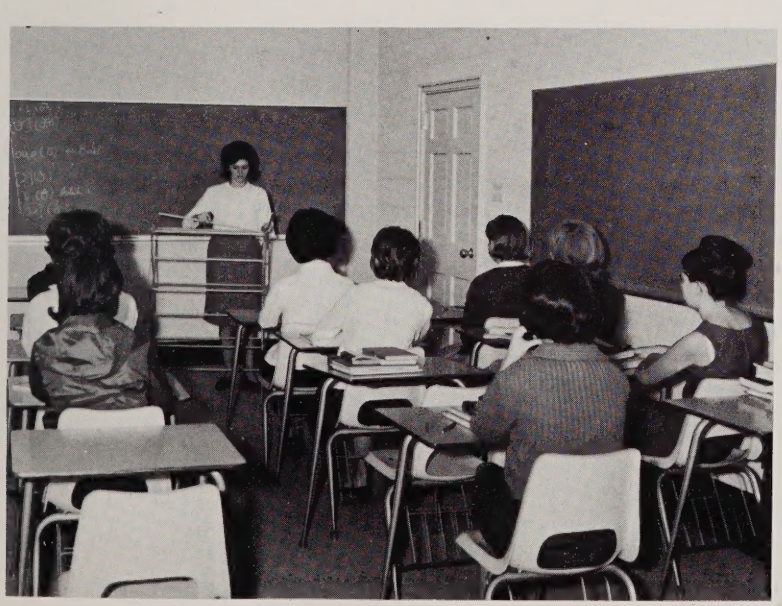
Molly Reagle operates the audiometer in Miss Greene's speech correction class.

Mr. Olsen gives his famous "crossword puzzle" test in History of the Theatre.



Candy Tanner demonstrates the use of the clothes dryer in Basic Speech class.

Students in the Speech Department at Sullins acquire poise in reading and in speaking.

In Introduction to Speech Correction, girls observe children with speech disorders at the Bristol Speech and Hearing Clinic.

Basic Speech, Voice and Diction, Oral Interpretation, and History of the Theatre are the other courses offered. This year the girls took a field trip to the Tennessee School for the Deaf in order to observe methods being used for teaching the deaf-mute child.

Languages

Mr. Adair explains the day's assignment to a student.

The students view Mexican art in Mrs. Courteau's beginning Spanish class.

Mr. Adair monitors in French language laboratory.

Sullins offers courses in beginning, intermediate, and advanced French and Spanish. Speaking, reading, and writing in each of the languages is stressed so that proficiency may be gained.

In the new language laboratories, girls have the opportunity to perfect their pronunciation and accent. Classroom conversation in the language enables the student to improve her command of either French or Spanish.

Math and Science

Mr. Vance helps the girls set up some experiments in chemistry lab.

Becky Kellam works a difficult problem in Mr. Blacka's algebra class.

With the increasing importance of technology in today's world, girls at Sullins find many courses which encourage the mastery of math and science. The Science Department offers anatomy, physiology, biological and physical sciences, zoology, botany, and chemistry.

The mathematics division of the department offers courses such as algebra, trigonometry, calculus, and analytical geometry so that students may explore mathematics.

The girls look at slides in botany lab.

Fine Arts

Mr. Marshall sets up an art display.

Three of the students in Miss Gemmell's class in advanced harmony analyze a musical composition.

Students at Sullins find many opportunities for creative development in the fields of art, music, and the dance.

Individuality of ideas and their expression is stressed in the Art Department. There are frequent exhibits of art on the campus. Students can develop their musical talents by studying piano, organ, and voice in the Music Department. Recitals give the students opportunities to show the public their talents. The Dance Department gives any girl the opportunity to study beginning, intermediate, or advanced dance. The dancers give their major performances at Mardi Gras and at the May Day Pageant.

Some dance majors practice in class before a Mardi Gras rehearsal.

Applied Sciences

Miss Walker helps a student with her typing assignment.

Barbara Berry and Corinda McConnell try out the sewing machines in the new clothing laboratory.

Miss Gilliam dictates to her beginning shorthand class.

Sullins offers courses in business and home economics in the field of the applied sciences. This line of study gives the girl a chance to prepare herself either for a career in business or home economics or for the role of homemaker.

The Business Department offers such courses as shorthand, typing, accounting, and law. Second-year secretarial majors work in the offices of doctors or businessmen in Bristol.

In the foods classes of the Home Economics Department, girls learn to plan, prepare, and serve nutritious meals. In the clothing classes, the girls plan and make additions to their wardrobes.

Sophomores

Madge gives another of her performances.

With the closing of summer, we looked forward with eager anticipation to our year at Sullins as Sophomores. How glad we were to see all our friends again! Orientation week was a whirlwind of varied activities as we introduced the Freshmen to Sullins. This reminded us vividly of our own first year.

How excited we were when we first entered the doors of Martin Hall to be greeted by such friendly faces. College work was hard, but we managed to take weekend trips to V. P. I. and Cornell.

With the coming of Christmas, we eagerly bought toys and clothes for our Christmas children. During vacation we excitedly related to our friends at home our experiences at Sullins.

After we returned from the holidays, exams were upon us. That meant cramming, concentration, and many sleepless nights. Our hard work paid off, however, when grades came out and most of us found we'd made our C average.

Second semester began with numerous activities. Mardi Gras, the Kentucky Derby, and that wonderful trip to Bermuda brought to a close our first year at Sullins. Even though we were eager for summer vacation, we knew we would miss our friends and look forward to seeing them again the next fall.

We came back in September as upperclassmen with Sophomore privileges. As we once again arrived at Sullins, this time not as wary, scared Freshmen, we were completely refreshed from our summer vacation and ready to settle down to what we knew would be a hard year. We, of course, reveled in our new status and enjoyed being the leaders instead of the followers.

Once again we went through the routine of vacations, banquets, dances, and special events, such as Mardi Gras and the Christmas party for the underprivileged children. There was a different feeling for us, however, knowing that this was the last time we would be a part of these occasions. We suddenly realized that this was our final year at Sullins and that all too soon we would be going our separate ways.

With the closing of the year, we took part in the May Court, the Mother-Daughter Luncheon, the Graduation Ball, and finally graduation itself. This was both a sad day and a happy day for all of us as we looked back over our two years at Sullins and realized how much a part of us it had become. We knew that we, too, would always be a part of Sullins—a small part, perhaps, but large in our own eyes.

Four friendly girls to make you feel welcome.

"O. K., Rats, 'Air Raid!' "

The year that we had looked forward to for so long is drawing to a close. It has been a good year—a year of growth in exploring new ideas, building new foundations, and acquiring new friendships. Now we are all together as a group, a bond, a link in an unbroken chain. We can look not only to future hopes and aspirations but to past fond memories and meaningful experiences.

Entering Sullins in the fall, we had no time for feeling lonely or scared. We were met by the smiling faces of our "Big Sisters" and the music of the Cotton Pickers. We spent the week making new friends, visiting Camp Sequoya, and talking with our advisers and instructors. When classes began, we realized that we were truly college students.

First quarter went quickly for us with our new amount of studying, our first trip to Virginia Tech, and our first formal dance, Fall Frolics. Then one night we were caught by surprise as Rat Week officially began. We soon discovered our talents in the areas of writing letters, participating in "air raids," and yelling "Rat approaching!"

At the beginning of second quarter we elected capable freshmen as class officers and representatives to House Council and Judicial Board. Soon after that it was time for Thanksgiving vacation. Some of us chose to go on the school-sponsored trip to New York, while others went to their homes or those of friends.

After our short holiday, we realized we had only three weeks until Christmas. During this time we had the SAMPLER Dance; the yearly Freshman-Sophomore Banquet; and, for the needy children of this area, the Christmas party, which proved most rewarding and filled our hearts with the true spirit of Christmas.

When we returned from our vacation, we found exam week staring us in the face. We never thought we would live through it, but we did. Soon our thoughts were turned to the Annapolis trip and—more important—Mardi Gras.

Finally Mardi Gras was here, and our attention was drawn from our studies to the festival activities and our parents and beaux. The highlights of the weekend were the performances of the Dance Department and the Choir and the presentation of the Queen and her court.

A fitting Climax was the Mardi Gras Ball. All too soon our fabulous weekend was over.

Before we knew it, spring had come, and we were leaving the campus again. The class parted for either Bermuda or their homes. With our return new "Pickers" were chosen and our officers were elected to guide us through our all-important sophomore year. During this quarter several of the girls spent an exciting weekend at the Kenturky Derby. As the events of the year drew to a close, exams were here again.

As we watch the Sophomore Class preparing for graduation, we realize that we have grown in more ways than academic achievements. There are the intangible aspects of our first year which will linger with us always. We have made personal progress in becoming aware of our responsibilities, in gaining self-confidence, and in living with and understanding others. We can truly say that we have grown and matured during this year at Sullins and hope to continue to do so next year as the Class of 1965.

Presidents' Council

Being the legislative and administrative branch of the Student Government Association, the Presidents' Council organizes and coordinates the activities of the various campus clubs. Its chief function is to supervise elections for all campus officers and to interpret the wishes and suggestions of all the students. The Council strives to promote more school spirit, to bring about closer integration between classes, and to encourage appearance and conduct which will be a credit to the Student Body and the College.

The Council is composed of its officers, the president and vice-president of the Student Judicial Council, the president and social chairman of the Sophomore Class and the Freshman Class, the house presidents, and the presidents of the various student organizations.

Each year, the Presidents' Council plans the social calendar. It tries to schedule social events which will appeal to each student, hoping to promote student participation and support. This year the Council provided address books, sponsored formal and informal dances, planned the Halloween Party, and gave break parties during exams. Its activities add to the social life of Sullins.

Judicial Council

The responsibility of developing and upholding the standards of our college life is given to the Student Judicial Council, which is the judicial body of the Student Government Association. The purpose of the Board is to protect the rights of all students, to uphold the rules of conduct as stated in our handbook, to improve social, moral, and academic life, and to create harmony that is essential to the well-being of the student body and the college in student life.

The Judicial Council is composed of a president, vice-president, three members of the Sophomore Class and two of the Freshmen Class, elected at the end of each semester, and a Faculty Advisory Committee. These members strive together to create not only a disciplinary organization but an advisory board.

It is the job of the Council to see that the principles of the Honor Code, the basis of our college life, are upheld. The Honor Code has been a living part of Sullins for many years and with the beginning of each term the student body is faced with the challenge of upholding, preserving, and improving this most vital part of our college.

Pause a moment. Before you lies a record of the growth which has occurred in the past year at Sullins. This is to be your memory of friends and events developed in 1964, which the Sampler Staff has compiled throughout the year.

The theme of the growth of the individual in the Freshman and Sophomore classes is then presented to you with this thought—no other two classes have ever held, nor will ever hold, the memories that we do—memories that make our classes unique.

Campus Religious Organization

OFFICERS

Becky Prendergast, Treasurer; Betty Shanks, Secretary; Bernardine Pettus, Vice-President; Miss Gregg, Adviser; Nina Russell, President.

The Campus Religious Organization is non-denominational. Since all students are eligible for membership in the C.R.O., there is widespread interest in this organization. The purpose of the C.R.O. is to instill in students a full and purposeful life through active participation, thereby permitting them to grow in the knowledge of God.

A Council of ten, consisting of a president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer, five chairmen, and a faculty adviser, tries to promote Christian fellowship and good will among students by planning interesting and inspirational activities.

The Campus Religious Organization sponsors a morning chapel service each Friday, a Thanksgiving service, the traditional Christmas party for the underpriviledged children of this area, and the special Christmas service for the students. This year the C.R.O. held a service in memory of President Kennedy.

The C.R.O. helps create, maintain, and extend high ideals of Christian character.

Phi Theta Kappa

Mr. Martin congratulates Wendy at the Phi Theta Kappa initiation.

Our only Greek Letter society is Phi Theta Kappa. Membership in this society is the highest academic honor which can be achieved at Sullins. Each year, sophomores who display qualities of scholarship, leadership, and character are selected for membership.

Five girls chosen for membership took their oaths in the traditional installation ceremony on Wednesday, April 8. President Martin and Mr. Knipe, the sponsor, conducted the initiation, the highlight of which was an inspiring talk given by Mrs. Edith Hooks, former instructor in social science at Sullins. That evening, a banquet was held in honor of the new members.

Science Club

The Science Club is one of the two honorary societies at Sullins. Promoting interest in mathematics and the natural and physical sciences, as well as striving to achieve outstanding scholarship in these fields, is its purpose. In order for a student to be eligible for membership, she must maintain an overall B average in her mathematics and science courses taken at Sullins.

This year, the Science Club is one of the largest organizations on campus, indicating both a widespread interest in math and science, and an individual academic achievement in these courses.

Campus Chest

OFFICERS

Patty Thompson, Secretary; Becky Kellam, President;
Kathy Jones, Treasurer.

The Campus Chest is an organization formed for the sole purpose of allowing students to contribute to charities of their own choice. Membership is open to those sincerely interested in the support of local and national charities.

An annual drive for student donations is sponsored by the Chest. Although the drive is not compulsory, most students support it with a genuine concern for people less fortunate than themselves.

Beneficial to student good will and to the organizations to which it contributes, the Campus Chest inspires a mood of unselfish giving.

Cotton Pickers

Lots of painted freckles, big smiles, the traditional blue overalls, and red-checked shirts and sneakers distinguish our Sullins hillbilly group, the Cotton Pickers.

During exams, Mardi Gras, and Graduation, and at many informal parties, the Pickers create spontaneous spirit with their lively rhythms, accomplished through playing ukes, bongo drums, tambourine, shakers, clickers, washboard, spoons, and the washtub.

The Pickers also play at various clubs and at other schools in Bristol. Wherever they go, this lively group creates happiness for everybody.

The Student Art Guild is a select group of art majors who have shown outstanding achievement in art. The members of the guild have performed such services as helping the Dance Club with scenery and the Sullins Players with posters for their spring productions. They have acted as hostesses at various exhibitions which were presented at the Hut. The guild also gave a banquet in February, which was followed by an informal sketching session in the Art Studio, attended by both students and faculty members.

The guild performed its last annual showing at the end of the year with the graduation exhibit to show the outstanding work of the students.

The Sullins Players have presented a variety of plays under the guidance and direction of Mr. Richard Olsen. The first production—"An Evening in the Theatre"—consisted of two one-act plays, "Rooms" by Amelia L. Lapena and "The Case of the Crushed Petunias" by Tennessee Williams. This spring the Players presented two well-acted plays, No Exit by Jean-Paul Sartre and, for the Fine Arts Festival, "Aria da Capo" by Edna St. Vincent Millay.

Continued this year because of its popularity with the students and faculty was the Sullins Verse-Speaking Choir, which presented for the December Arts Program, "A Dirge" by Percy Bysshe Shelley and "The Glove and the Lions" by Leigh Hunt, both directed by Mr. Olsen.

The club has grown in size and popularity. It has proved to be a club in which Sullins has great pride.

Sullins Choir

Mr. and Mrs. Fleming, the Choir, and guest harpist Emily Kellam present the Christmas Concert.

The thirty-five voiced Sullins Choir opened its full season of activities in October when it sponsored a concert by the Vanderbilt Men's Glee Club at Sullins. In December, the Sullins singers presented their first formal program with a Christmas concert.

In February, the Choir presented half of the gala Mardi Gras program. Selections from Oklahoma, Kismet, and Showboat were sung, with guest male soloists assisting.

Two performances of the Fauré Requiem were presented in March when the Sullins Choir appeared with the University of the South Men's Chorus of Sewanee, Tennessee.

In April, the Sullins Choir joined the Emory University Men's Glee Club of Atlanta, Georgia, to present the Schubert Mass in G.

Two joint concerts featuring the Sullins Choir and the Davidson College Men's Chorus of Davidson, North Carolina, were presented in May. The groups performed Vesperae Solennis de Confessore by Mozart.

The busy Sullins girls concluded their outstanding concert series with appearances at commencement.

Dance Club

The Dance Club is composed of students especially interested in ballet and modern dance. Performances and other activities of the Dance Club bring to the students a greater appreciation and understanding of this fine art.

This year at Mardi Gras, during the Fine Arts Festival, and at May Day, the dancers exhibited their year's work in beautiful, polished performances, evidence of long hours of hard practice.

In January, the club sponsored a banquet, followed by a recital, the theme of which was "Dances of Yesterday, Today, and Tomorrow."

"Serenade for Strings" by Tchaikovsky, the theme of the Mardi Gras production, presented under the direction of Madame Sklarsky with the help of Mrs. David Cooper, accompanist for the Dance Department, featured Mr. Gordon Peavy as guest soloist.

The dancers contributed beauty and variety to the Fine Arts Festival and to the annual May Day Pageant. Classical and modern dances were presented at the Pageant. One of the presentations was "Rondo Caprioso" by Saint-Saens.

The Women's Recreation Association organizes many athletic events. The association also provides an intramural program for both individual and team sports.

The annual powder puff football game is the first athletic event of the year. In a friendly rivalry, the freshmen get their chance to get back at the sophomores for Rat Week. The game is followed by a picnic, at which the Pickers play.

At the Halloween party, the girls are able to show off their artistic ability in the creation of their costumes. Prizes are awarded for the most unique outfits.

Association

One of the most delightful times of the year is the Christmas season. Many of the girls bundle up on a cold winter night to go caroling at the homes of the different faculty members and come back to a delicious treat of hot chocolate and cookies.

After basketball season is over, an intramural program of volleyball, basketball, swimming, and tennis is provided to give all the girls a chance to participate.

The season comes to an end with the W. R. A. Banquet. Here awards are given to some of the more outstanding participants in the athletic program.

Hoofprints Club

The enthusiasm of the Sullins equestriennes, along with a doughnut sale and an informal dance, supports one of the most popular clubs on the Sullins campus, the Hoofprints Club.

Under the experienced supervision of Miss Barbara Hatcher and her assistant, Mrs. Haynes, the girls are transformed from timorous novices into competent horsewomen. Frequent drills and aching muscles make this possible.

One of the most pleasurable aspects of belonging to the Hoofprints Club is the Sunday morning rides through the woods.

Betsy Firey, riding "Home Again," displays great poise in a jump in a horse show.

The riding facilities—the barn, two rings and an outside hunt course—are located beyond the Hoofprints Lodge. The barn houses not only hunters but also the more glamorous three-gaited horses.

Throughout all seasons of the year, one may find aspiring riders practicing for the final judgment of their talents at the horse show in May, which parents and students attend with interest. At this show awards are presented by President Martin to the best hunter seat rider and saddle seat rider.

During the past winter, the girls spent several evenings in the gym, observing their basketball team in action. The team displayed a great deal of good sportsmanship and drive.

Swimming Classes

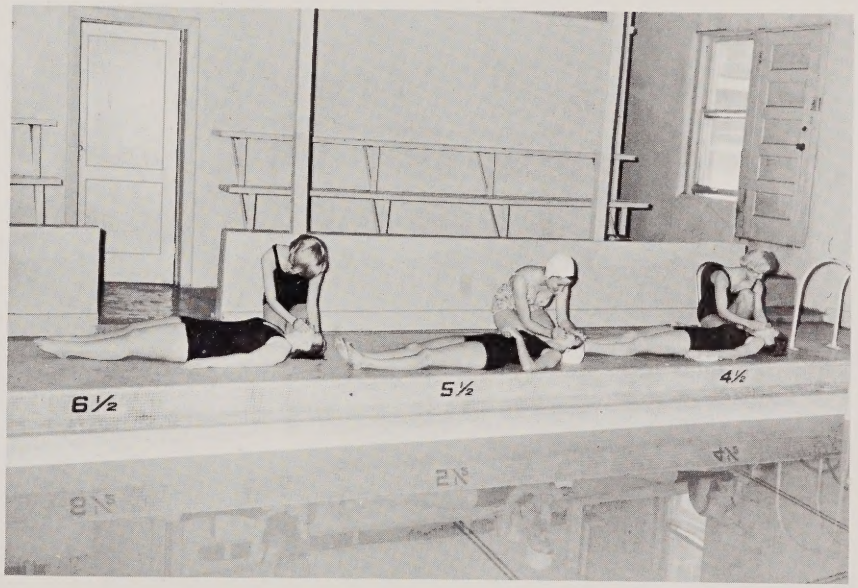
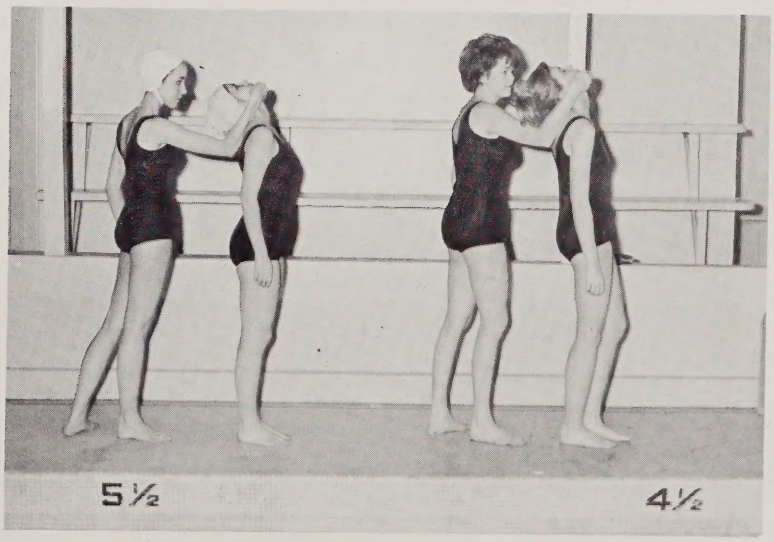
Every girl at Sullins is required to pass the basic swimming test given by the Physical Education Department. Many girls, after receiving their instructor's certificate, help teach some of the beginning classes. At the right a student instructor explains the technique of breathing under water to some beginning students.

The lifesaving class meets twice a week for both practice and lecture classes. The girls study safety methods for rescuing victims and different methods of administering artificial respiration. When a girl passes her final test, she receives her lifesaving certificate.



A course in water safety is an essential part of any swimming program. To be a good swimmer, an individual must be able to swim a quarter of a mile, using the proper form and strokes. After a girl learns the proper methods, she must put them into practice. If she meets all requirements, she is eligible to receive her instructor's badge.



Hey girls, watch the birdie!

Badminton is a sport for some of the smaller physical education classes. After a long day of classes, it is a great relaxer because it is a mild game and does not require strenuous exercise. Girls frequently play badminton at night.

Indoor Sports

On Monday afternoons when the girls go running to the school bus, they are off to Larry's Lanes. Bowling has become popular on campus because it is a change from the usual indoor gym athletics.

When we hear yells and screams coming from the gym, we can bet there is another volleyball game being played. Since it is such an informal game, it is enjoyed by all the girls.

Come on, Kay, one more point and the game is ours!

Get a strike, Lee!

King College golf course is a familiar sight to these "Sullins Susies." The girls play a nine-hole game once a week. This is a favorite sport among the lovers of the out-of-doors, who like to spend their afternoons strolling on the greens.

With the proper form, Gretchen illustrates how to get all birdies.

Outdoor Sports

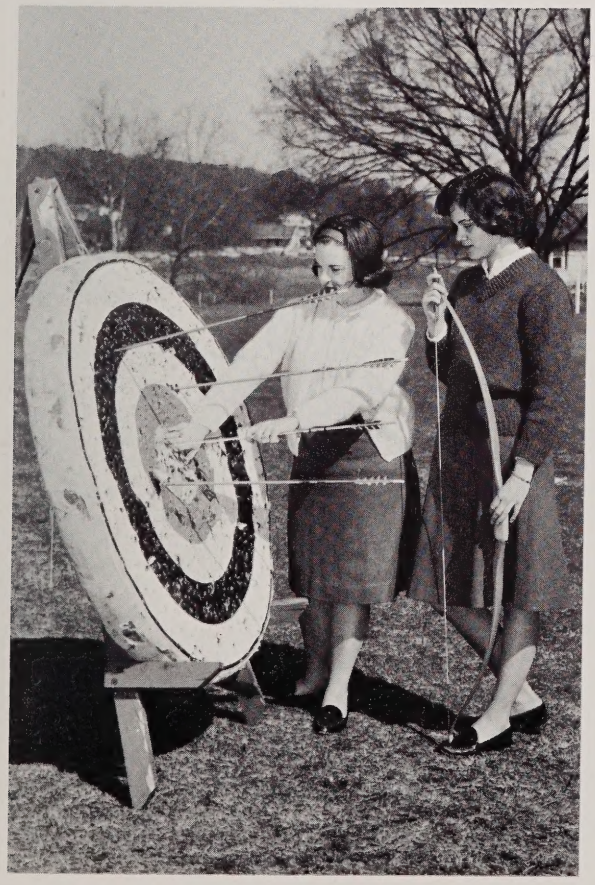
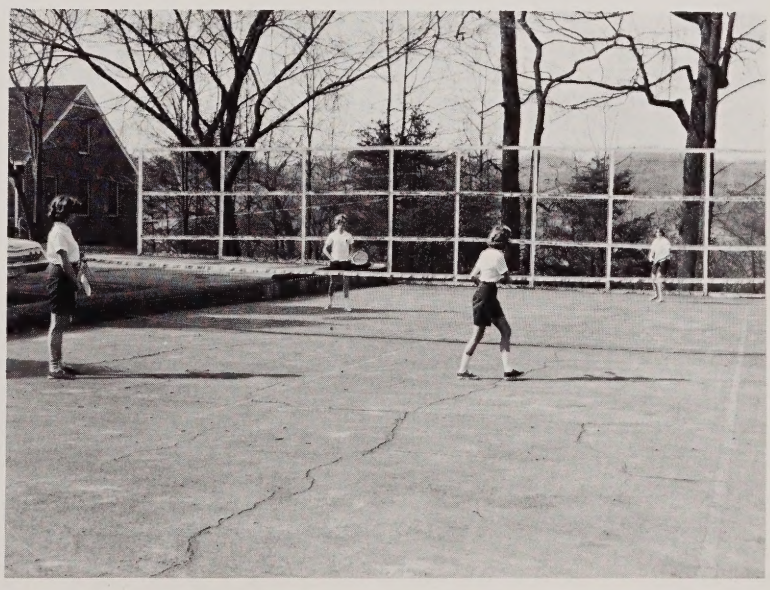
Archery is a sport that requires a great deal of patience. Fylma Witt will never forget having to tell the girls in her classes to keep their eye on the target. After all the practice, there is at least one bull's-eye.

As soon as the weather turns warm, the sound of tennis balls hitting the court can be heard. A favorite way to spend an afternoon is to get a group of girls together and play a tennis match.

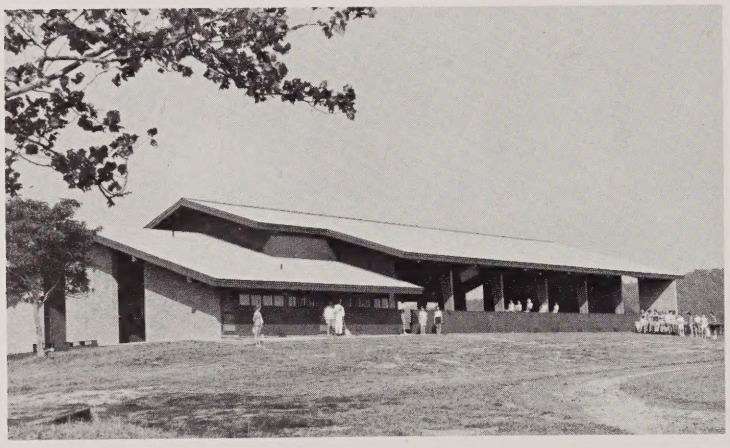


After excellent instruction from Fylma, Cathryn should be able to hit the bull's-eye.



Beautiful and sunny—it's a perfect day for a tennis match.

The lodge is a favorite gathering place on weekends.



Young campers, as well as Sullins girls, enjoy the gym.

A dip in the pool is always great fun on hot days.

The Island

Camp Sequoya, more familiarly known as "The Island," is an excellent place for a weekend of relaxation and fun. A number of girls can be seen each weekend, carrying their pillows, blankets, and ukes, boarding the Volkswagen for the Island.

All the girls are introduced to the Island during the latter part of Orientation Week. A fashion show is presented for them. After this, the girls are left on their own to explore the varied and excellent facilities. They may take a quick dip in the Olympic size swimming pool, canoe, water ski, sail, or play a game of basketball in the beautiful gymnasium. Later on in the evening, a meal is provided for the girls, after which skits are presented.

My, that hot chocolate looks good!

Julie, Sally, and Tena relax with their ukes.

Come on, girls, it's time to head back to school.

Nina Russell, our 1964 Mirror Girl, represents everything that is fine and true in a Sullins student. She is our ideal for the following qualities: Reliability, Efficiency, Friendliness, Loyalty, Enthusiasm, Charm, Trustworthiness, Originality, and Responsibility, all of which spell Reflector, our Sullins newspaper, which sponsors the Mirror Girl Contest every spring.

Anne Rodgers was chosen by the student body to represent Sullins at the Shenandoah Apple Blossom Festival in Winchester, Virginia, in early May. Anne, a lovely girl from Searcy, Arkansas, made a beautiful representative of Sullins in the festivities.

Through the years Mardi Gras Weekend has grown into a very significant event for each Sullins girl. The center of the many activities lies about our campus where the girls, faculty members, and administrators warmly welcome parents, alumnae, and guests. On Friday night the Mardi Gras Queen, Princess, and Court are presented, along with a program given by the Choir and the Dance Department. The following night the parents, the girls, and their guests attend the Mardi Gras Ball at the General Shelby Hotel. The pleasant experiences of this weekend contribute to our social growth.

Princess Bun crowns Ingrid Queen of Mardi Gras.

Throughout the school year, both Sophomores and Freshmen excitedly awaited the coming of our Mardi Gras Weekend in February. One of the highlights of this weekend was the crowning of the Mardi Gras Queen by the Princess.

After the court and pages were presented to the audience, the Princess, vivacious Bernadine Pettus, walked down the aisle to the stage. She was then followed by Queen Ingrid Lagerfeldt. As she passed, the audience gave definite sighs, whispers, and nods of approval for our elegant, graceful, and decidedly beautiful queen. When Bun placed the crown upon Ingrid's head, the first part of the Friday night presentation was completed, and everyone knew that Mardi Gras had now begun.

The presentation of the royalty, however, was not the only event which made up Mardi Gras.

Gras

There was an open house at the Hut, an informal student talent session in the gym, and a reception for the parents at the Martins' home.

The grand finale of the weekend was the Mardi Gras Ball, which was held at the General Shelby Hotel. Lester Lanin's Travelers provided the music for the occasion. The high point of the evening came at ten o'clock when the Queen, the Princess, the court, and the pages were presented once more. Each lovely girl walked down the aisle of ribbons, escorted by her father or her date as appropriate music was played by the Travelers. The dancing soon continued, but the end of the ball came too soon. Although everyone was tired after this gala night of dancing, no one could deny that the memory of this occasion would be cherished by all those who were present.

Mardi Gras

Guest soloist, Gordon Peavy, dances at the Mardi Gras presentation.

Mr. Peavy and Barbara dance with grace and ease.

The Dance Department, under the direction of Madame Besa Sklarsky, presented the first part of the Mardi Gras program. The performance consisted of a series of ballet and modern dances to the theme of "Serenade for Strings" by Tchaikovsky. The guest soloist for the dance production was Mr. Gordon Peavy from New York. The performance reflected the beauty of the music and showed that the diligent work of the dancers had been worth every strenuous minute. The entire mood of the dancing put each member of the audience into an excellent mood for the weekend.

The entire dance performance brings much applause from the audience.

Activities

Mr. and Mrs. Fleming and the Choir add a great contribution to the Mardi Gras festivities.

Everyone is warmly welcomed to the Mardi Gras Ball.

The sparkling music of Lester Lanin's Travelers is enjoyed by all the dancers.

The final part of the program was presented by the Sullins Choir, directed by Mr. Leon Fleming. Selections were sung from Kismet, Oklahoma, and Showboat. Guest soloists were Dr. Don Hyatt and Mr. Edwin Miller. Mrs. Leon Fleming accompanied the Choir on the piano. Others contributing to the gaiety of the program were Mr. Charles Goodwin, organist, and Mr. Hamp Richardson, trumpeter. This performance also definitely demanded much hard work for its preparation. Student solos made the program quite an attraction from the beginning to the beautiful and powerful end.

The May Queen

LINDA LAURENT
May Queen

Along with Mardi Gras, May Day has grown into an important event during the school year for each girl. The main purpose of the occasion is to honor the sophomores, who will be graduated in two days. The ceremony traditionally takes place in the Sylvan Theatre. The beautiful queen is attended by a lovely princess and two pages. Along with these girls, there are twenty charming ladies of the court to lighten the entire atmosphere. This elegant procession, however, is only partially representative of the glorious feeling the girls have in the springtime.

Pageant

Along with spring came many joyful events, the most memorable of which was May Day, a special day honoring the sophomores. The May Queen, Linda Laurent, and the May Princess, Laurie Diercks, were attended by a court of twenty lovely girls. The dancing performed in honor of the queen added to the excitement of the weekend. The May Day festival, which was held in the Sylvan Theatre, made the weekend of graduation a memorable one.

The hunter seat class gathers for instruction concerning the course.

Tena receives a trophy and congratulations from President Martin for her excellent riding in the saddle seat class.

Horse Show

With the advent of spring, the riding stable became the hub of furious activity. Horses were clipped, tails were set, and weights were put on the feet of the gaited horses. The dust flew and the horses sweated as the girls attempted to work them into shape for the spring shows. But the climax was the horse show that took place during commencement. The competition was keen in the various classes. The show was climaxed by the presentation of the trophies to the champion and reserve riders in the saddle and hunter seat divisions.

Sue pilots her beautiful grey hunter over a brush and rail jump.

Monty and Judy study a collage in the art show.

Marie and Sandy exhibit a sample of a wood block sculpture.

Art Show

On Friday night of graduation weekend, the Art Department put on an impressive art exhibit. Much work and preparation went into turning the art studio into a regular art gallery; the walls were painted, the useless things were discarded, and the whole area was put in spick-and-span order. Mr. Marshall, Mr. Nason, and Miss Keller had the difficult job of selecting the works to be exhibited. All the best works of the graduating sophomores were displayed, plus examples of the best works from the freshman art students.

Four students enjoy the paintings and drawings.

Graduation

During the commencement weekend the fathers were entertained at a lunch at the Baileys' home while the mothers were entertained at the Holiday Inn by their daughters. In this way all the fathers had a chance to get acquainted.

On Saturday night of this final weekend everyone enjoyed the Graduation Ball. The highlight of this night was the formal presentation of each of the sophomores, escorted by her father. But here again, the night was much too short.

One of the commencement occasions that was a favorite with everyone was the smorgasbord. No one will ever forget the array of food presented in our dining room or the wonderful feeling of satisfaction he felt when he finished eating.

Activities

Finally Sunday, the day of graduation, came. The procession to the Sylvan Theatre was headed by the faculty members, who were followed by the students. This wonderful occasion was a long-awaited goal for each of the sophomores.

As we walked toward the stage, we were filled with joy for the culmination and achievement of our hard work. But at the same time, we felt sadness and sorrow because we knew we would soon be departing on our separate ways.

When everyone had assembled on the stage of the Sylvan Theatre, the address was presented. Then, with mixed emotions, each girl received her diploma that represented two years of diligent work and of happiness.

Epilogue

These are our memories, symbols of our growth, which we shall keep with us always. The beliefs and ideas that we brought to Sullins two years ago have developed into more mature attitudes. But this period most certainly has not brought an end to our growth. Our thoughts and entire beings have only been cradled here in preparation for a lifetime. Our growth at Sullins is only a beginning. No matter where we go or what we do our hearts will partially remain here, and our thoughts will often return to our schooldays on the hill, where we have learned and lived together. Thus, we say good-bye to Sullins in the hope that the growth we have achieved here is an indication of that which we will experience in the future years of our lives.
